

Aloe kilifiensis

Family : Asphodelaceae -Xanthorrhoeaceae
GIR: Kitozi

Grows in woodland around Kilifi

he plant is classified as ‘Endangered’ in the IUCN Red List of Threatened Species

An evergreen, succulent, perennial plant producing a rosette of leaves. The plant often produces suckers and can form small clumps.

The plant is harvested from the wild for local medicinal use.

Attracts sunbirds

